

The Center for Latin American Studies presents the “Jueves de Cine” screening of:

Don't Call Me Son

Thursday, November 9, 2017

8:00-10:00 PM

Rutgers Cinema, Livingston Campus, Theater I

RUTGERS
School of Arts and Sciences

A young man is stunned to discover that he was kidnapped as a child by the woman he's called mother his entire life. Now, he's left to deal with the consequences of her actions and finally meet his biological family. The film was nominated for the Cinema Brazil Grand Prize in 2017 and it has won the Teddy award from the Berlin International Film festival in 2016.

Jueves de Cine is organized by the Center for Latin American Studies (CLAS) and co-sponsored by the Cinema Studies Program, and the Department of Latino and Caribbean Studies. The Program is free and open to the public. Seating is on first come, first served basis. Popcorn and soda will be served.